Special Inspector Surprises Men Transferring Arms to the Cuban Vessel and is Savagely Pounced Upon by Them.

It was only yesterday that the famous filibustering tug Dauntless figured in the press dispatches as having successfully landed two blg expeditions during May in Cuba. One of these was said to be the second largest that ever reached the island. Now comes the news of her capture yesterday morning near Miami, Fla., just as she was about to start with another batch of recruits and cargo of arms and am-

Fort Lauderdale, Fia., May 31.—An attempt to start a monster expedition of men, arms and munitions of war from New River inlet at daylight this morning led to a murderous assault on Special Inspector Hambleton and a defiance of the United States authorities which will lead to serious results.

Hambleton was aboard the schooner Privateer when the fillbustering steamer Dauntless was seen on Friday night close at New River. On being observed the school of the Union's principles, or at the least an abatement of its original desire to crush political bargaining in municipal politics, is contemplated, I shall enroll under the banner of the man who can best do what the union intends should be done—with regard to this vital issue. I believe Dr. Rainsford is that man.

The Lewis, Burch and Pashley families are doubly bereaved in that death and injury entered each of them. Little Hope for Two.

The hospital authorities hold out small hope for Walter Welbrock and Lawrence K. Barnes. Death is almost certain to claim them before many hours elapse. Mrs. Andruss and Miss Stewart are deemed not entirely hopeless, but the surgeons will not go so far as to assert positively that they will recover. Welbrock's injuries are terrible. His legs are simply inert masses of fiesh and bone.

The injured who were taken to their homes were attended by physicians and all were pronounced in a condition favorable to rapid recovery as soon as the effects of the shock passes away. Miss Pashley has not been told of the death of her brother, George Pashley, nor has Emily Burch been notified of the death of her sister Dora.

Boston, May 31.-The customers of Howard's restaurant, on Milk street, were greatly surprised this morning to find all the old waltresses gone and a new set on hand. And every one of the new girls was clothed in new, nent, natty bloomers of a fetching and fascinating cut.

Proprietor Howard has had a hard time to induce his waitresses to change their garments, and he regards this as a great victory. A week ago he notified the girls that hereafter they must wear bloomers instead of skirts. The girls protested violently, but it was of no avail. Proprietor Howard was unrelenting in his demands. The girls said they would strike and so they did. This did not dismay Mr. Howard, who was bound to have bloomers. So he advertised for young ladies "willing to wear bloomers and do work for $4 a week." hand. And every one of the new girls
